

Ban Chaing Neolithic Pottery Vessel

This ovoid bowl with flared neck is decorated in iron red with parallel scrolls. Includes wrought-iron tripod stand. Ban Chiang is an archeological site in Nong Han District, Udon Thani Province, Thailand. It was added to the UNESCO World Heritage list in 1992. Discovered in 1966, the site attracted enormous publicity due to its attractive red painted pottery. Provenance: I.M. Chait, Los Angeles, CA, August 21, 1988, lot 228; Property from a private northern New Jersey collector. 15 1/4 inch, 15 inch diameter, 20 1/2 inches on stand.

PRICE

$6,500

PERIOD:	2100 BC - 1000 BC
ORIGIN:	Thailand
DIMENSIONS:	20.5" h x 15" diam 52.1cm h x 38.1cm diam
ITEM #:	NA0463
