Japanese Six Panel Screen: ShiShi in River Landscape

Three shishi, also known as foo dogs or guardian lions, play next to a golden misty waterfall. They are seen as intimidating, mythical, lion-like creatures that symbolize prosperity, success, and guardianship. Mineral pigments and gold dust on muberry paper. Silk brocade border and black lacquer trim with original bronze hardware. Signature and seal read: Hogen Tansaku hitsu (1729-1797). One of a pair with S1913A, Sold Separately
